Bethel keeps its recycling, trash options open

By ERNIE JONES

Bethel selectmen chose not to put all their eggs in one basket Wednesday night when dealing with the solid waste questions.

The board chose to roll with the punches and not to sign any contracts with PERC, MEKO or any other waste disposal facilities in the near future after listening to waste hauler Brian Rogers.

Selectmen also gave a cautious endorsement to the Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Commission's plan to apply for a county-wide grant for recycling operations.

Rogers told selectmen that he anticipated steep increases at such facilities as MEKO and PERC. He said that many municipalities have signed contracts with these companies and that these towns may have little choice but to pay for the increase or possibly file lawsuits against them.

Bethel has not signed any contracts with waste facilities as yet, and Town Manager Rodney Lynch along with the selectmen plan to continue using various waste facilities on a spot basis. Rogers said that for the moment the facilities are crying for waste to keep their incinerator and other operations going. He said that the situation might change late in the spring when the volume of waste is increased state-wide when the tourist season begins.

Mr. Rogers said that the town runs a slight risk that its waste may be turned back from these facilities if the town does not have a contract with one of them.

"The waste facilities have 'too many teeth and are biting a little too hard,'" See RECYCLE, page 2

Bethel rated in Top 16 among U.S. ski towns

Chicago-based "Outside" magazine, in its current issue, lists Bethel as one of the best ski towns in the United States.

The magazine describes what it terms "46 Soulful Ski Towns." In the east, in addition to Bethel, the magazine picked Lake Placid, N.Y., Ludlow, Vt., and North Conway, N.H.

Selectmen tackle service assessments

By ERNIE JONES

Bethel selectmen addressed the issues of assessment fees for services to other towns, an interim loan for the sewage plant and police coverage on weekends at their meeting Wednesday night.

Bethel charges Newry and Hanover for the use of the landfill. Town Manager Rodney Lynch presented his proposed assessments for fiscal year 1991 to the board. For Newry was assessed $7,000 and Hanover $17,000 for 1990. Mr. Lynch recommended that Newry's assessment be upped to $8,500 and Hanover's to $20,000. The board asked Mr. Lynch to provide more detailed information as to how much each town uses the landfill. Selectmen also wanted more details concerning Newry's request for the Bethel Town Office to issue and collect fees for temporary use permits when the Newry Town Office is closed.

Selectmen also requested the town manager to find out how many ambulance runs and fire calls were made by Bethel to the neighboring municipalities. Selectmen said they wanted to know the specific numbers of runs and calls were made to these areas before the board sets new fees.

Harry Faulkner, owner of the Backstage Restaurant, appeared before the board to air his concerns on the town's weekend police coverage.

He said that he had been assaulted recently and that the one police officer who responded to the situation was not enough to deal with the problem.

Selectmen asked Police Chief Brian Stowell to submit a report on what, if anything, could be done to improve the situation on Friday and Saturday nights. Chief Stowell said Monday, Mr. Faulkner intends to hire a reserve officer to be on duty at the Backstage on weekends. The chief said he thought Mr. Faulkner's hiring of a reservist for Friday and Saturday nights should improve the situation.

Mr. Lynch explained that the budget for police has already been set and that the town manager had no authority to change it in order to provide additional coverage at the taxpayers' expense. The town has one officer on duty on Friday and Saturday nights. The department does have at least one officer available around the clock, seven days a week.

The board approved and signed the necessary paperwork for the town to take out an interim loan of $217,500, principal, with the Bethel Savings Bank for sewage plant upgrade work.

Mr. Lynch told selectmen that the Bethel Inn and its employees recently donated $50 to the Recreation Committee to defray some of the maintenance costs of the skating rink. He said many of the Inn's employees enjoy use of the

NO NEED TO RUSH—Even on weekends (this was last Saturday) skiers can usually count on short lift lines and plenty of room on the slopes at Mt. Abram, in Locke Mills. The sputtering New England economy and Old December's bitter cold have kept some skiers away from the slopes, but skier visits are still strong at Mt. Abram and Sunday River Skiway—thanks largely to early snowfalls and excellent snowmaking weather. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Andover selectmen spar with Blue Rock

By BARBARA ADAMS

As a result of a lengthy and somewhat heated discussion between the Andover selectmen and Blue Rock Industries about the deteriorating East B Hill Road, vice president Charles Hascall of Blue Rock finally asked the selectmen to pay them $50,000 of the $87,000 due, and the company would reluctantly provide them with a $50,000 maintenance bond.

"This would mean," Hascall said, "that you'll get roads as good or better than you contracted for. It is unreasonable to insist we put up this amount, but that's our offer."

At the suggestion of selectman attorney Maselli, the selectmen will consult town attorney Curtis Webber and determine whether the bond offers any more protection to the town than the initial contract did, before deciding to accept the offer.

Earlier in the evening, Selectman Fred Emerson told Hascall and Mark Humphrey, Leeds divisional manager of Blue Rock, "You haven't even resolved the motor vehicle situation yet (referring to cars and trucks damaged by tar). I am angry and I get flak from the townspeople every day. I am still opposed to paying you people. I don't want to give you a penny. You have unpaid bills, we have unpaid roads. The public has told me don't give them a nickel."

Selectman Maselli said, "The roads should have been taken care of in the beginning. Mr. Melcher (who met previously with the selectmen) was unwilling to admit anything was wrong in September or early October when it could have been taken care of. If we had to start from scratch it would cost us money we are holding back. You guys don't know what it is going to cost to fix it and neither do we."

Selectwoman Jane Rich said, "We owe you $67,000 and we'll discuss holding back $20,000. If the vehicles are taken care of we'll discuss paying you $47,000. The vehicles have to be taken care of before any check is issued."

Mr. Hascall assured the board the vehicle situation would be "resolved in a week" and he apologized for the delay. He also told the selectmen, "We understand the situation you are in. We believe $7,000 for the cost of repairs is a very fair figure, more than enough including patching this winter if the weather warms up [disputed by the selectmen]. When we got your letter turning down your holding back $7,000 we were disappointed. Two weeks ago we left the meeting with a mutual sense of respect we thought. Not having a number suggested by the selectmen when you ob-

PAVED BUT UNIMPROVED—A group of Bethel area pilots and other airport supporters are unimpressed with the pace of progress at the Col. Dyke Airport. They will meet next week to form a group which would take over management authority for the airport, but first they'll have to convince the Bethel selectmen—who are currently responsible for the airfield—to give them the authority to manage the field.

Airport supporters hope new group will spur pace of improvements

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Members of the Bethel Aviators' Group and the town's Airport Development Committee plan to meet next week to form a new organization. They hope to then persuade the Bethel selectmen to delegate management authority for Col. Dyke Field to the new entity.

Approximately a dozen members of the two groups met Saturday in the town office to discuss what they perceive as the slow pace of improvements at the airport, and to come up with a way to speed things up. They attributed the slow progress in large part to political pressure on the selectmen from constituents who regard the airport—in the words of one—as a "millionaire boys' club playground."

Last summer, for example, the selectmen turned down a proposal from a developer who wanted to construct hangars at the airport, at his own expense. The proposal called for the hangars to revert to the town after 20 years.

The organizers of the new group hope that by convincing the selectmen to delegate management authority for the airport to them, they will relieve the

State consultant reviews MEA test scores with school board

By MICHAEL DANIELS

"You do need to do some roll-up-the-sleeves, pick-and-shovel work on curriculum," a testing expert from the state Department of Educational and Cultural Services told the SAD #44 Board of Directors at their regular meeting Monday evening.

Discussing the district's poor showing on the Maine Educational Assessment testing, DECS consultant Tim Crockett told the board the best hope for long-term improvement lies in not only revising the current curriculum, but in seeing that the new curriculum is used in day-to-day teaching.

"Writing curriculum is only 10 percent of the job," he said. "The other 90 percent is getting it taught once the doors to the class close."

Mr. Crockett's presentation to the board followed a similar presentation to teachers two months ago (see The Citizen, Nov. 15, 1989).

The poor scores are not the result of lack of effort on the part of teachers, he contended. "One thing we really shouldn't expect is for people to work harder. We need to get more information out, to redirect our resources to areas we aren't doing well in."

Following the 40-minute presentation, board members asked a number of ques-

Woodstock planners fear they'll be the scapegoats for excessive legal fees

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Woodstock Planning Board is worried that townspeople will incorrectly blame the board for a substantial overrun in the town's legal fees for 1989.

The town allocated $15,000 for legal fees last year, but Town Manager Vern Maxfield estimates that when all the bills are in, the town will end up spending an additional $5,000 to $8,000.

Part of that total was incurred by the planning board in its role as code enforcement officer for the town, and at their regular meeting last week, board members expressed fear that the townspeople would attribute the entire overrun to the board.

But according to the town manager's estimate, approximately three-quarters of the total legal bill was for two matters that had nothing to do with enforcement or the planning board—attempts to collect back taxes from Stowell Wood Products Inc., and resolving a property dispute with a landowner on Lake Street.

Board members also pointed out that the legal fees that did result from its enforcement attempts were not incurred in the course of normal planning board activities.

In fact, the planning board members

Bethel selectmen back Stowell's D.A.R.E. efforts

By ERNIE JONES

The Bethel Board of Selectmen gave their overwhelming support Wednesday night to Bethel Police Chief Brian Stowell's efforts to initiate the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program in SAD #44 schools.

Chief Stowell told selectmen he is applying for grant monies which the federal government has made available. The DARE program has been very successful across the country in helping to wage the war against drugs, Stowell said.

Chief Stowell said, if he gets the grant from the federal government, he would like to start the program sometime in the middle of the school year, after students have become accustomed to the new school year and before they begin to wind down for summer vacation.

He said that he would concentrate on 6th graders. He told selectmen that even if it means that he, or another officer, had to travel to Andover or somewhere else, he was confident that a way could be found financially as well as not sacrificing any protection for the town at those times.

He said the program has a law enforcement officer go into the schools to work with the students. He added that the officer conducting the program will have special training and will go through a special class.

The program lasts 17 weeks, he said. According to chief Stowell, he has already received some grant money but hopes that private individuals as well as local organizations might help in meeting expenses by giving donations.

He told the Board he wanted the program "to be the least costly to the taxpayers as possible."

He said that the school district might or might not have funds available to help with the project.

Chief Stowell explained the program seeks to give children the tools by which they can say no. He said that in some cases children have parents who abuse drugs and alcohol. One aspect of the program is aimed at insuring children it is all right to choose not to use drugs or alcohol, even though the parents might be using the substances.

The D.A.R.E. program originated in Los Angeles and has gained wide acceptance across the country. The program tries to get police, parents and the schools working together, Chief Stowell said. It tries to build up the self-esteem of students to overcome peer pressure.

He added he does not anticipate any long delays on a decision on the grant and feels he will get an answer on the grant soon.

Mind the store, not the game

Fictional detective Sherlock Holmes often said to his comrade, Dr. Watson, "Wake up. The game is afoot."

In Maine, the game is politics and it's the electorate which should wake up.

Rep. Joseph E. Brennan recently announced his candidacy for governor. Brennan was governor for eight years before winning Maine's 1st District congressional seat. He was prohibited by Maine law from running for a third consecutive term as governor.

Gov. John McKernan ran successfully for that office while giving up the 1st District seat in Washington—a nice political flipflop.

Voters will now get a chance to see the two go eyeball to eyeball from now until November.

But it's a long time before voters will file into the booths on election day.

In all likelihood, McKernan and Brennan will make decisions and announcements with one eye on what is good for their constituents, but with the other eye on how they can make political capital and win the hearts and minds of voters to insure a term under the warm light from the lofty chandeliers at Blaine House.

One does not have to remember too far back, or go too far south, to see how a candidate holding office may not always watch the store for which he was elected.

Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts hit the campaign trail for the presidency in 1988. Dukakis claimed he was managing the state effectively during his run for the top office in the land. He said that in many ways Massachusetts was an example of good and efficient management.

But after his defeat, the honorable governor of the Commonwealth returned to find that the state budget, which he said he had kept such a close eye on, was in chaos. He also learned that the Massachusetts miracle, to which he pointed with pride, was now the Massachusetts scrap heap.

Let's hope candidates McKernan and Brennan do not follow the Dukakis example. Let's hope that they will do what is right and proper in their respective offices for the good of the state. Let's hope that they are able to wage campaigns without sacrificing or ignoring their duties in the process.

Let's hope that these political gladiators will have the courage to face the issues and each other head on.

For the voters of Maine, as Sherlock Holmes would say, it's elementary—pay attention to what they do, and not what they say. EWJ

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

I have a couple of items I would like to respond to relative to the Dec. 20 issue of the Citizen.

First, the editorial relative to recycling, it appears some errors appear in the editorial. It also appears you take the town to task for what you suggest is a problem which doesn't exist. The selectmen at their Dec. 18 meeting voted to have the recycling container moved from the landfill to the town garage area. The newspaper shed stays at the landfill.

There is an intown drop-off point for newspapers at Marvin Owing's garage at the corner of Elm and Summer Streets. Any Bethel resident is welcome to use this facility at any time.

Second, the news item concerning the selectmen's meeting of Dec. 18. The recycling container will be moved when it is full. The replacement container will be set up in the town garage/ambulance station area but so as not to interfere with the operations of either unit. The committee and the Highway Superintendent would not want the container out in back. Anyway, let's get the current container filled so the move can take place. There is still a fair bit of room in the container.

Newsprint is taken away by the Rumford Adult Activity Center at no cost to the town. If they didn't take it the town would have to pay at least $20 a ton or more to get rid of the paper over and above lease of container and transportation.

Now cardboard—the chairman of the board informed the committee wasn't doing anything to think of recycling cardboard. Here are a couple of thoughts of why we are "not thinking." Currently it would be far too costly to the town. The town would have to invest in the lease or purchase of a baler to compact the cardboard (or other compactable material). A shed would have to be built to protect material from the weather. A small fork lift (1½-2 ton capacity) need be purchased for moving and stacking baled material and loading on trucks. The committee feels the town is currently in enough expense now because of sewer problems and expense.

However, with state mandates, these items will be around in due time.

Finally, we will advise the Citizen when the container is moved. So please get into recycling. Newsprint at the landfill or Owing's, and clear glass, brown and green glass, aluminum and plastic milk and other opaque plastic containers.

Items not currently recycled are magazines, slick paper inserts, clear or shiny plastic containers, light bulbs, window glass, mirrors or windshields.

To the Editor:

It has just come to my attention that no dogged races will be held in Bethel this year, due to the ambivalent attitude of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber apparently feels the races are not important enough to warrant fund-raising efforts to deliver the event to Bethel area citizens this year.

I wonder why the Chamber continues to expend money touting the local ski area and inns to a rapidly growing out of state market, while ignoring an event (dog-sledding) which would be of interest not only to out of state visitors, but to Bethel area residents and many other Mainers as well. Can it be that the Bethel Chamber of Commerce is more interested in attracting and serving those from out of state rather than their own fellow Mainers?

I do not participate in the races myself, but I do enjoy dog-sledding with my own team. Perhaps the Chamber doesn't realize that there is a vast network of dog owners in Maine now becoming interested in sledding. Moreover, great interest in dog-sledding is growing among the non-dog owning public as a "new" spectator sport.

Making the dog-sledded races an annual event would only enhance Bethel's out of state image as a four-season, all-sport community, while giving to year-round Maine citizens an event they could enjoy as well.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank you and your newspaper for the great job you do at the Bethel Citizen. You cover alot of the major stories like the Saunders story and the Coolidge story. When I left for the service, both stories were in the air. Now that I'm here in Germany I have been able to keep up with the news, not just the big stories but also the small ones that are in the community and surrounding communities.

All servicemen and women are fortunate to have their local newspaper sent to them. Some may not be able to get it due to the newspaper itself or just because they don't want the paper. I get the Bethel Citizen and really enjoy it.

Keep up the great work and Happy Holidays.

when it comes to the $9 increase per ton that they are asking for, Mr. Rogers said.

He added that towns which signed contracts much earlier and at a much lower price might have to battle it out with the facilities in court. If a town contracted with a facility years ago at a very low rate, it will see a vast increase from that rate up to the current rate.

According to Mr. Rogers, some of these towns might see their test jumping up well over 100 percent. The facilities use differing rates with each town according to their contract but MERRC and PERC hope to make the price increase even for everyone.

He said that the municipalities with contracts might flat out refuse to pay and that the state might have to get involved.

Chairman Arlan Jordrey said that he would just as soon "continue on a hand-shake," with Rogers and on a spot market basis.

Rogers does not anticipate any problems finding places which will handle the town's waste. He said that if he sees any changes or problems with either price or facility availability he will return to the board as soon as possible.

Assistant Rockie Graham explained to selectmen Oxford County Regional Waste Commission's rules and membership regulations.

Any final decision to join the commission would have to be voted on at town meeting.

She said the commission, would be run on a one-town, one-vote basis. She said that commissioners would be elected to three-year terms and that there were numerous regulations concerning joining after the initial start up takes place, as well as rules for dropping out of the commission.

The commission is looking to apply for a county-wide recycling grant. Selectment voted to endorse this effort. The board also stated that the town should, at the same time, pursue looking for recycling grant money.

By pursuing both lines of attack for procuring recycling grant monies simultaneously—the town's own efforts and through the commission—the board said that the town would retain its options to deal with possible future actions that the state might adopt in dealing with recycling.

Chairman Jordrey was concerned that if the town acted prematurely and committed itself to either the commission or by working on its own, Bethel might miss out on state funds.

Mr. Humphrey said the company had surveyed the damage to the roads Dec. 1, measuring as to which had to be patched or overlaid. "We are going to do what we have to do," he said, mentioning using a maintenance mix for repairs.

Selectman Emerson also requested in writing exactly what Blue Rock intends to do. The board has put further discussion about the situation on the agenda for next week.

In other business, Fire Chief Ken Dixon pointed out to the board that 1989 had resulted in no serious fires or major injuries. He is going to look at a fire engine in Epping, N.H. on Jan. 13 and invited the selectmen to go along if they were interested.

The fire department radio (costing $8,500.75) struck by lightning has been repaired at a cost of $85, and a insurance settlement received for $2,250. Dixon also reported that the Andover Fireman's Association has contributed $600 to the fire department budget, and $200 to the maintenance plan.

Since the selectmen never received hoped-for plans from the architect for putting the town office in the Town Hall, the subject of new offices will not be opened to the voters at the town meeting in spring.

Instead, plans are underway to include a request for refurbishing the present office with newer, properly scaled furniture that can be transferred to new offices in the future.

The present furniture, the selectmen said, "is of World War II vintage" and takes up too much needed space.

The selectmen have learned that the town would be liable for any injuries which might occur at a proposed skateboarding area since "insurance companies won't touch it." They will tell interested parties about their decision not to pursue the matter.

Treasurer Alex LeGault reported that the highway department budget for 88/89 was $13,300 in the hole, but a surplus of $8,300 in county winter roads offsets some of the deficit.

Fire Chief Dixon advised of an electrical system overhaul at the Town Hall. Immediate repair work will be taken care of, and additional work will be on the town warrant.

Ronelle Rayson from the Maine Municipal Association Health Trust spoke to the Board about the cost of providing health benefits to town employees, stating both individual and family rates. This will also be a warrant item once the selectmen determine what comparable towns offer to their employees.

The supporters also acknowledge that it's unlikely the airport would ever be able to operate at a profit. But, they contend, its broader economic impact on the area would more than offset any operating losses.

"A hell of a lot of money would fly in there quickly," said Rumford pilot Dick Theriault.

Jim Hudson, who chairs both current groups, said State Sen. Don Twitchell (D-Norway) has expressed support for the airport improvements. Dr. Hudson also noted that he had invited the Bethel selectmen to Saturday's meeting, but none attended.

The next meeting of the airport supporters will be Wednesday, Jan. 17, at 7 p.m., location to be announced.

Sen. Cohen calls for oil price investigation

Sen. Bill Cohen called on Energy Secretary James D. Watkins to investigate the causes of the sharp rise in home heating oil prices and to take steps to alleviate the crisis.

"This winter's exceedingly cold temperatures coupled with huge jumps in oil prices have created an untenable situation," Cohen said. "Mainers are suffering because of events over which they have no control, and I believe an explanation and then a correction is warranted."

In a letter to Watkins, Cohen noted that just two weeks ago concerned citizens were contacting him because the price of home heating oil had jumped 20 cents a gallon since the summer.

"Now, the price has almost tripled, and the concern has turned to anger," Cohen said. "While I understand that prices are influenced by events that often cannot be controlled, I remain concerned that the low supplies we are now seeing could have been avoided with better planning."

It is very troubling to think of the elderly and poor, especially, attempting to pay such incredibly high energy bills while facing an extended cold spell," Cohen said. "We should take whatever steps are possible to relieve the stress this situation is causing."

The Senator asked Watkins for recommendations on how to improve the current system so that huge price hikes can be avoided in the future.

If urge you to investigate the causes of the sharp price rise and take whatever steps are necessary to alleviate the current situation. ... and I hope we can take the necessary actions to bring some sanity to the pricing process," he said.

tions regarding the content and validity of the test.

Alison Aloisio, of Newry, asked if the department worried that teachers would try to improve test scores by "teaching to the test."

"Teaching to the test means different things to different people," Mr. Crockett replied. It would be ethically and professionally wrong to prepare students by practicing on the actual test questions (which in any case is probably impossible, given the construction of the test).

But, he went on, the test was structured and written by Maine teachers and reflects current best practice in each subject area. If teaching to the test means covering the same curriculum areas covered in the test, he said, "then go right to it."

John Foster, of Andover, asked how the poor test scores on the MEA, especially the most recent 11th Grade scores, could be reconciled with the district's apparently improving scores on nationally normed SRA tests.

"Easy," Mr. Crockett said: "If you didn't score above average on (commercial) standardized test you would be in a distinct minority."

At the elementary level, he said, 90 percent of all schools score "above average"; at the secondary level 85 percent do.

Even aside from these distortions, (referred to as "the Lake Wobegone effect"), he pointed out that the different tests are designed for different purposes. The SRAs are useful for tracking the progress of individual students, the MEAs for evaluating programs.

At the conclusion of Mr. Crockett's presentation, Superintendent Dewaine Craig presented him with a fluorescent pink baseball cap. The district administration, while not ignoring long-term efforts to improve test scores, is also pursuing some quick fixes, such as more comfortable testing situations and the pink baseball caps.

The caps—an attempt "to provide instant gratification," Supt. Craig said—will be given to all students who improve their MEA test scores (if they have previously taken the test in SAD #4) or who score above the state average (if they have not previously taken the test here).

The logo on the front of the cap reads: "SAD #4—MEA C Caps."

In other action at Monday's meeting, the board set Jan. 17 as the date for a joint meeting of the personnel, policy and education committees. The meeting is in response to concerns raised by parents regarding the size of the current 1st Grade class at the Ethel Bisbee School.

At the meeting the board will review the district's procedures for allocating teachers, aides and specialists.

Prior to the business portion of Monday's meeting, Telstar High School Principal Ted Davis distributed copies of the school's newspaper, The Rebel Yell. The student paper has recently been revived, after an absence of several years, the principal said, largely through the efforts of a parent, Kelly Vascik, and staff members Heather Carson and Dave Tripp.

Mr. Foster reported the Education Committee will be holding public forums to discuss the 8th Grade placement issue. The forums will be at Woodstock Elementary, Jan. 9, at Andover Elementary on Jan. 16 and at Crescent Park School on Jan. 23. All the forums begin at 7 p.m.

In personnel action Monday, the board approved the appointment of Jayne Leonard as a long-term substitute Grade 2 teacher at the Woodstock Elementary School, one of the following substitute teachers: Linda Best, Rebecca Ellis, Tara Durgin, Carolyn Johnson, Kathleen McCluskey, Suzanne Roy, Joyce Seckinger, Ilene Trainor and Kenneth Whittey.

Yvette Currier and Carolyn Johnson were also approved as substitute food service workers and Corinne Hammond, and Dorothy Swan as substitute custodians.

The board also approved a request to pay Barbara Dunham $414 for coordinating the Crescent Park School basketball program.

Telstar High School Student Council member Nancy Carter and Becky Hunt attended Monday's meeting; directors Merton Brown and Stan Howe, both of Bethel, did not.

In other business, the board received a letter from Thompson W. Moore, maintenance supervisor with Maine Department of Transportation. The letter indicated the state would change its road plowing policy. The letter stated a plow truck would start from the Bethel lot and would plow Route 26 from the town to Telstar High School when future storms hit the area.

Previously, the letter stated, this section of road plowing was done by a truck from the South Paris DOT lot.

Selectmen voted to send Moore a letter thanking him for his efforts. The letter will also ask if the DOT would extend the plowing to beyond Telstar High School along Route 26. Manager Lynch and selectmen noted they have received numerous complaints about bad driving conditions near Bryant Pond and Telstar this year.

Selectmen also reviewed and made some minor additions to the advertisement to be taken out concerning the sale of a 1977 International dump truck with plow.

In executive session, selectmen interviewed Senior Study Committee candidate Mark Ellander and Mike Cooper for the Planning Board alternate position. The board also discussed in executive session salaries for town employees for next year.

Mountain Valley scores early to down Telstar

Despite a strong effort, the Telstar High School basketball team fell behind early and just could not find the right combination to catch up to powerful Mountain Valley.

The Rebels fell, 75-53, to drop their record to 5-4 in a Friday night contest at Telstar.

Matt Gaudet led the Falcons in the early going. He hit on three 3-point shots and finished with 17 points overall in the first half. When the halftime buzzer sounded, the Rebels found themselves 25 points behind.

Telstar coach Carroll Higgins praised the strong man-to-man defense that Mountain Valley used to hinder Telstar's offensive efforts.

Having amassed a strong edge, Mountain Valley used many of its players and 11 of them scored in the winning effort.

Corey Dugway led the Rebels with 18 points, 12 of them coming in a strong Telstar rally in the fourth period. Aaron Bean also notched 18 points for Telstar.

Mountain Valley's Gaudet finished the contest with a total of 18 points with teammates Scott New adding 16 points to the final Falcon tally.

Ask a Lawyer . . .

Ten years ago a fence was put up behind my lot. The person who put it up said that by law, he had to put the good side of the fence toward my property, and that he had to put the fence over on his land 12 inches, which he did. I filed my lot and planted grass up to it. Since I have maintained this piece of land for 10 years, do I have any claim to this small strip of property? (He had this surveyed before he built the fence, and his marker is on my side of the fence.)

Your question deals with the legal concept called "adverse possession," a phrase that defines the process by which an individual can gain legal title to land by taking certain actions in relation to the land over a period of time.

Although it has often been said that "possession is nine-tenths of the law," Maine law requires that a person meet several other criteria before gaining title through adverse possession. In order for possession of land to "ripen" into title, the possession must be: a) actual, b) open, c) notorious, d) hostile, e) continuous, and f) exclusive under a claim of right, g) for a period of at least 20 years. If any one of these elements is not satisfied by the person claiming title by adverse possession, the claim will fail.

In the question which you present, you have no claim to title to this strip of land since you have only claimed it as your own for 10 years.

The answer to your question would be more difficult, however, if you had exercised some possession and control over the land for at least 20 years. Clearly, by your back filling the lot up to the fence, planting grass on the land and maintaining it, your possession is "open" and "notorious" and puts your neighbor on notice that you claim an ownership interest in the land. Your use of this strip of land, however, must also be "adverse" to the true owner. That is, you must intend to occupy the land and hold title against the true owner. Under this criterion, possession which is permissive will never ripen into title by adverse possession.

Your possession must also be "exclusive" and you must exercise exclusive dominion over the land for an uninterrupted period of twenty (20) years. The true owner of the land can defeat your claim to adverse possession by taking any action to break the continuity of your possession.

Finally, you must possess the land "under a claim of right," which means that you must take possession of the land intentionally and possess it to the exclusion of all others, including the true owner. Under Maine law, you must actually intend to possess this land adversely to the owner. (This also means that if you mistakenly occupy land for twenty years or more without intending to claim title beyond your actual boundary, you do not acquire title by adverse possession to land beyond your true line. For example, if your neighbor's fence were mistakenly erected on your side of the boundary but your neighbor did not intend to claim title beyond the boundary, he would have no claim to your land.)

Adverse possession cases usually turn on their facts as determined by either a judge or jury. The more overt and numerous your acts of ownership over the given piece of land, the more likely your success in a claim by adverse possession.

Given the facts of your case (especially the conversations which you had with your neighbor indicating his reason for putting the fence 12 inches from his boundary) it may be difficult to convince a jury or a judge that your use of this land is adverse and hostile enough for you to establish title. For instance, merely mowing your neighbor's grass for a period of twenty (20) years would most likely be deemed to be neighborly rather than adverse and under a claim of right.

Sen. Mitchell says . . .

Last spring, people the world over watched with admiration for weeks as millions of Chinese people, led by a group of brave young students, staged the largest peaceful demonstration in all human history. But early last June, the world watched in horror as the Chinese People's Liberation Army brutally suppressed the demonstration, killing, wounding and beating their unarmed fellow citizens.

The Chinese people and the people of Eastern Europe demonstrate that the desire for freedom and economic opportunity is universal. As the leader of Western democracies, the United States has a responsibility to state clearly and unequivocally our strong support for the ideals of liberty and self-determination. With respect to China, we can and should demand that the leaders of China respect the rights of their people and be responsive to their legitimate democratic desires.

President Bush declared that there would be no "business as usual" with the Chinese government after the Tiananmen massacre. Unfortunately, the President's deeds have not matched his words. In fact, his actions have sent the wrong signals at the worst possible times.

This fall, Congress passed legislation to extend the visas of the 40,000 Chinese students in the United States without a single dissenting vote. The Chinese government threatened to stop student exchange programs with the U.S. if the bill became law. So the President vetoed the legislation, denying Chinese students in our country statutory legal protection against deportation and possible persecution. The President also vetoed an earlier bill which would have placed limited sanctions on the Chinese government until such time as it moves to a more open society.

Then, in early December, literally in the middle of the night, the President dispatched two of his top advisors to Beijing to meet with the Chinese government officials responsible for the bloody crackdown. Many Americans were understandably dismayed at television coverage of Brent Scowcroft, the President's National Security Advisor, toasting the Chinese leaders who had ordered the tanks into Tiananmen Square.

The Administration maintains that the purpose of the meeting was to brief the Chinese leaders on the results of the President's meeting with Soviet President Gorbachev at Malta. President Bush has voiced his support for the efforts of the people of Eastern Europe to throw off the yoke of Communism and achieve democratic reforms in their countries. But he has been conspicuously reluctant to support the efforts of the millions of people in China who yearn for similar reforms.

A week later, we learned ever more astonishing news. The President had sent Mr. Scowcroft on an even earlier midnight mission to Beijing in July, barely a month after the massacre.

What signal does that send to the Chinese leaders? By sending top aides to China, President Bush has strengthened the position of the hardliners in Beijing, by giving the appearance of business as usual. The President has thrown away any leverage the United States may have in influencing Beijing's treatment of reformers by signaling that brutal repression has very little cost.

And what signal does it send to the rest of the world? If the Soviets reverse course and send their tanks into East Germany, or Poland or Armenia, will the President send his emissaries to Moscow after six months to tell them that we want to do business as usual? Or are there to be two American standards, one for China and another for the Soviet Union and everyone else?

The President has accused those who disagree with his actions of dealing with emotion. But is it not dealing with emotion to advocate that our Government stand up for the principles of human rights and democratic freedom that are the foundation of our society. The secret missions to Beijing by the President's advisors make a mockery of our profession of concern for human rights and the stated ideals of our democratic system of government.

We must, of course, keep open the prospect of a continuing relationship with China. The choice need not be between isolation and approval. We can best serve our long term interests in China by pressing the current Chinese leadership to grant amnesty to demonstrators, free the dissidents now imprisoned, and cease tactics of fear and intimidation. Above all, we should uphold our ideals of support for self-determination and human rights for all the people of the world struggling to be free.

Gateway program starts in February

Gateway, the new name for Stephens Memorial Hospital's Chemical Dependency Program, will offer an ACOA (Adult Child of Alcoholics) group starting in February.

An ACOA is an adult who grew up in a home where one or both parents were alcoholic, or where one or more grandparents were alcoholic. ACOAs carry over into their adult lives many dysfunctional behavior patterns and defense mechanisms which they learned in childhood. The ACOA often was forced into a role in their family which enabled him or her to survive the chaos and unpredictability of an alcoholic environment. These same survival roles and behavior, however, can become impediments and make life for ACOAs very painful. Almost without exception, ACOAs experience difficulty in intimate relationships, work settings and parenting.

The ACOA group will give the members an opportunity to build a caring and supportive community based on trust, empathy, understanding and honesty. Through participating in the group process, ACOAs can learn to develop healthy relationships and discard the old self-defeating patterns. ACOAs, through the group, can take a risk and enter into a journey towards understanding themselves, particularly in relation to others.

The ACOA group will begin on Feb. 6 and will be limited to 10 people. Meetings will be held once a week on Tuesday nights in Room 304 in the Ripley Office Building, 23 Winter St., Norway. During the first few weeks there will be some education about the family disease of alcoholism and about ACOA issues. The group will lead its members through stages of trust building, risk taking and self disclosure. As understanding starts to develop between members they become more comfortable in talking about their feelings and problems. The fee for the group is $20 per session and most forms of healthcare insurance will cover this cost.

The group presenter is Gary L. Tatton, a registered substance abuse counselor. Mr. Tatton has had extensive experience in group work relative to the chemical dependency field and has worked with many chemically dependent people, co-dependents and adult children of alcoholics. To register, call Gateway, 743-5553, extension 555.

Students work together

Gould Academy and Telstar High School will exchange students later this month. Some Gould students will attend Telstar on Jan. 22-23, while some Telstar students will be at Gould Jan. 26-27.

The two schools are in their second year of offering cooperative projects. Recently students under the supervision of Telstar teacher Beth LaVallee and Gould teacher Lorenzo Baker attended a conference titled "Helping Children Succeed: Strategies That Work" at the University of Maine, Orono. Telstar students Kristin Powell, Kris Delano, Solal Buchanan and Gould students Oren Murphy and Lee Roberto attended the conference.

George J. Kimball (Tommy) is a patient at the Stephens Memorial Hospital recuperating from a heart attack.

Earlton Keniston, a former resident and neighbor here, was taken by ambulance to the Norway Hospital Tuesday evening after being stricken with a heart attack at his home in Bethel.

Our family gathered here Saturday afternoon for our annual Christmas party. Coming from Hanover were Herbie and Dotti Adams, Derek and Erin, and from Otisfield, Ethel Bean Turner, Sarah, Amber, David and Jonathan Bean and Minor Centro, and from Auburn Kassi and Bernie Gatchell. Craig Turner was at Massachusetts General Hospital, where his son Mark was recuperating from surgery. Mark is now at Norway Hospital.

New Year's day Norma, David and I went to Old Orchard Beach to help Brandon celebrate his birthday. Kassi and Bernie Gatchell and Tara Hutchins joined the party.

I went to Rumford Wednesday morning for my blood test.

Jack and Eleanor Parsons were in Rumford for lunch on Tuesday in honor of Jack's 80th birthday. They also called on his sister-in-law in Rumford Point.

Mrs. Eleanor Parsons hosted a committee meeting at her home Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stone of South Paris were callers here Saturday evening.

MELTDOWN—December, the decade's final month, was the coldest on record, but soon after New Year's Day a springlike January thaw blessed the area. This must have been a familiar event years ago—

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Carrie:
Happy Birthday! I'm actually on time with my greeting this year... how about that!

We're busy as beavers at the Maine-ger as the ski season builds. Our guest beds have been filled by old friends, new friends, and some family since the day before Christmas. It's definitely time to invest in some new sheets!

Richard (Vautour) and Laura (Tabloski) joined us for a couple of days. They managed to fit in a day of skiing and a rowdy game of Pictionary. (Rich takes great pleasure in the fact that he and his lady love have greater right-brain communion than do his parents who've been sharing thoughts for three and a half decades!)

Speaking of brain power... On Thursday last, we followed the Hostermans to the monthly Historical Society meeting in order to cheer for Jane and her partner, Marvin Owinga as they attempted to dethrone Kathy Newell and Martin Brown as longstanding "So You Think You Know Bethel" champions. The annual contest, M.C'd by society director, Stan Howe, offered players and audience members a chance to struggle with dates and bits of Bethel trivia that ranged from questions about the early canning of corn to more recent service in Congress. The "underdogs" made a valiant attempt to overthrow the incumbents, but were not able to seize the throne.

During the subsequent refreshments, curious gobblers gathered around the "Twelfth Night" cake of Persis Post, hoping to spy or bite into the one hidden bean. After much poking and sampling, young Phoebe Brown identified the elusive legume and claimed her chocolate prize.

Next morning, several of us ladies of the Chapel Aid met at out village church to attack the tall, trimmed tree. We carefully removed the ornaments, wound up the lights and dragged the tall, untrimmed tree outside to the tall-untrimmed-tree-recycling-area.

That task accomplished, I headed home to attack our own short fat tree. Your favorite Uncle Donald managed to time his return with my winding of the last string of lights. We then proceeded to yank off the top third of the very real looking Douglas Fir impersonator, stash it in the long box, and then fold the other two thirds of the fake fir like a bulky umbrella and cram it into the box with its top. I know... you're wondering why we have capitulated to commercialism... why, in the Pine Tree State did we resort to a reasonable facsimile of the real thing? It's a long story that might make good copy one day... ask me again.

While I was gently placing the old and cherished ornaments in their "egg-crate" cubbies, I was reminded of events or people connected to each. I found myself thinking of contacting some of them, just to say "hello," or "how are you?" And in light of our recent loss of Uncle Al, I was reminded once again of the importance of acting on those impulses. I once had a professor who urged us to look up the people who had been influential in our lives while we still had the chance. It was a good lesson. I even had the pleasure of chatting over coffee with my high school English teacher and mentor, quite by accident, and I told him (25 years after the fact) how much I owed to his influence... I heard of his death just a few months

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis, of Rochester, N.Y. returned to their home on Friday, the 29th after spending several days with their daughter and family, Sally and Bill Berry, Daniel and Ryan. Sally's sister Nancy Davis of Munich, Germany was here at the same time also, and flew out of Portland on Friday to return to Germany. Nancy brought home a piece of the Berlin wall.

Vernie Inman spent Thursday and Friday with Aunt Vicky and family in North Conway, N.H. They came on Friday evening, so Vicky and Brant spent the night and Saturday here with her parents Vernon and Miriam. Walter Inman, Jr. spent Friday with his Aunts Nadine Miller and Linda Lawton on Twitchell Pond.

Gordon and Sally Doughty had as guests during the weekend her cousin Carolyn and Richard Snow of Bath. They returned home on Monday.

Bill and Sally Berry, Daniel and Ryan were in Milo for the New Year's weekend visiting with Bill and Beth Keegan.

Much sympathy is extended to the family of Evelyn Corbett.

West Paris Historical Society will meet on Monday, Jan. 15 for a 6 p.m. potluck supper and meeting. Phil and Virginia Hyam will be supper host and hostess.

On Wednesday, Jan. 17, the Universalist Church will be holding their annual parish meeting at 7 p.m. at Goodwill hall. There will be refreshments served after the meeting.

after our chance meeting... now that's timing!

Timing is of the essence, to paraphrase an old saw. Here in West Bethel, we cram so much activity into our winter calendars that the months fly by. We spend our leisure hours in little huts on little lakes starting at little holes in the ice (some of us). Many of us ride over wooded roads on snow machines or glide along on cross country skis. And lots of evenings find lots of friends gathered around cribbage boards or even checker boards.

Sometimes we even venture out for lunch or dinner, as Linda Westleigh and Mary Doon did recently. They headed for the Mustard Seed Cafe in Gorham, N.H., last week where they enjoyed the ambience as well as the onion soup. As they were busy balancing their spoons, Jane and Marietta Head were occupied with balancing their sleds on the slopes at a nearby Mason farm... for the sisters it was a pleasant diversion as they enjoy a winter break from their college classes.

Enjoy what's left of your break, dear niece. Contact your significant others if you can, and thank them for being there. At this end I'll be inquiring after the health of Wilbur Davis, our octogenarian neighbor who is recuperating from a hip injury suffered in a Christmas fall. We understand that he is home and doing well. Good wishes, Wilbur.

Tell your parents and brothers that their garret accommodations await them. The skiing is good, the company is pleasant, what more could they ask for?

Have a wonderful second semester. Write if you get bored. Love, C.B.

Gould art student wins $1,000 scholarship

Gould Academy art student Alesia Norling, 17, of Skowhegan, recently won a $1,000 scholarship from the Frances Hook Scholarship Fund in Roseville, Minn.

The Frances Hook Scholarship Fund was established in 1983 in tribute to the late artist Frances Hook.

A not-for-profit organization, the Fund operates under the guidance of a board of directors comprised of professionals in the gift, art and publishing industries and was created for the purpose of encouraging young artists by providing scholarships and recognition.

Norling is a senior at Gould Academy. Her winning entry, "Eggs," was done in white acrylic. She also received a $2,300 scholarship from the Fund in Spring 1989.

The secondary contest, held in November, was open to the top high school and college winners in the spring contest. Ten young artists shared $10,000 in scholarships.

In 1989, the Frances Hook Scholarship Fund awarded a total of $35,000 in scholarships and prizes to 53 students. The Fund will award a record $40,000 in scholarships and prizes. Each year, thousands of entries are received from young artists nationwide.

Funding for the scholarship awards comes from both industry and individual contributions. Persons wishing to contribute may send their gifts to the Frances Hook Scholarship Fund, 1910 W. County Rd. B, Roseville, Minn., 55113.

For further information, contact: Rhonda Olmstead, executive director, (612) 636-6436.

Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morton, Brooks Morton and Jody joined other family members at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morton and family in Mason Township on Dec. 30.

Other family members present were Mrs. Paul Melchin, Dawn and Paul, Jr. of Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Ronald York of Bar Mills, Mrs. Jack Greig, David Hunt, Sherri and Shawn Hunt, Peter Melchin, also Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cummings of Bethel.

It was 24° below Saturday morning at 7 a.m. at Seely's on Dec. 30. The sun sets at 2 p.m. over the mountains across the Bear River.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met Jan. 2 at Sylvia Gray's residence with six members present.

Oliver Anderson opened the meeting and the hosts read the devotion. Roll call by secretary Freda Robertson, who also brought the finances up to date. All approved.

A letter was read from the missionaries in Panama. A game was played, conducted by the president Oliver Anderson while the members enjoyed the refreshments. Gil Seeley made the motion to adjourn and Freda seconded it. The next meeting will be Feb. 5 at 7:30 p.m. location will be decided later.

I was just reading about the enterprising folks who are selling pieces of rock saying they are from the Berlin wall. More millionaires in the making out of the gullible public.

Correction: The date for the invitation of the Newry Selection to lead the St. Patrick parade in Newry Ireland is March 17 instead of the March 3. Sorry, Sylvia Wight, Helen Morton, Sis Post and Sis's guest Gil Seeley went to a luncheon with the West Parish Congregational Church Ladies Fellowship at the Philbrook Farm Inn last Wednesday. There were about 30 members present who enjoyed the beautiful atmosphere and surroundings. Besides the delicious food, on the way home we stopped at Sis Post's to say hello to Archie.

The ladies of Newry who went bowling last week were: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Bea Lowell, June Swan and Louise Tetley in Floral City said they had temperatures of 18 degrees on Dec. 25. Norman and she went bowling and she beat him a couple of times. They bowl with the big balls down there and the scores are higher. Will Louise beat him again next time? I like to see a woman get the best of a man.

Say hello to Amy and Roger and wish them a good 1990 year.

ALL RIGHT, YOU DELI-BELLIES, BELLY UP TO THE COUNTER—and kiss those New Year's diet resolutions good-bye. Bethel finally has its own New York style delicatessen—Skidder's Deli, located at the head of Main Street, in the former Edelweiss building. Skidder's is open seven days a week, serving traditional deli delights, and offering a variety of box lunches and complete take-out dinners. Owner Kevin McMahon (shown here serving a tough critic, fellow restaurateur Harry Faulkner) said he aims to provide only the freshest, highest-quality products: for example, fresh (not frozen) chicken and Boar's Head meats (direct from New York). The new deli is open 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The annual "So You Think You Know Bethel" contest was the feature of the January meeting of the Bethel Historical Society. This year's contest was particularly lively. Defending champions Merton Brown and Cathy Newell, representing the Bethel team, were challenged by the Sudbury team, consisting of Society President Marvin Ovinga and Vice President Jane Hosterman. Questions ranged from Bethel's earliest days to the present year. Once again the Bethel team prevailed, successfully defending their title by a 125-109 score. Once again Society Director Stanley Howe served as master of ceremonies; Margaret Joy Tibbetts, trustee board chairwoman, was judge, and program committee Helen Morton was scorekeeper. Much appreciation is expressed to all Society members who submitted questions for this year's contest.

During the business portion of the meeting, President Ovinga announced that the next meeting will be held Feb. 1 and honor the 200th anniversary of the first federal census. The meeting will feature highlights of heads of households in Sudbury Canada (now Bethel) in 1790 with relevant data about them, including where they lived, occupations, etc. The "Gift of the Month," presented by an anonymous donor, was four video cassettes of several films relating to Maine life, including a 1966 film on Maine logging, a trout fishing trip to the Rangleys Lakes in 1966, a ride on the Sandy River Railroad in the 1930s and "All But Forgotten: Holman Francis Day, Filmmaker." President Ovinga expressed much appreciation for these important additions to the Society's holdings.

He also announced that the 1989 Endowment Campaign had surpassed the $7,500 goal with a near record number of donors (323). Pervis Post announced that the refreshments for the evening commemorated the 12 days of Christmas. Among the last contributors to the 1989 Endowment Campaign were Donald Christie, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; Stanley Howe, Bethel, in memory of Ralph Hall, Iva Hutchinson, Noyes Shirley, Jordie Merrill, Abigail Fiske, William Howe, Edward Quinn, Edith Eddy, Anna Pierand, Louis Thibodeau and Alice Taylor; Urban and Neda Bartlett, Bethel; Walter and Phyllis Fales, Royal Oak, Mich., in memory of Alice Fales; Hazel O'Donnell, Newtonville, Mass., in memory of Wallace Farwell.

Snow Challenge slated for Jan. 14

The Maine Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society invites all interested snowmobilers to participate in its annual Snow Challenge. Snowmobilers obtain pledges for each mile that they ride and the money raised is used to support important services and programs for people in Maine with MS and their families.

Snowmobilers in Northern Maine are invited to ride on Sunday, Jan. 14 in Levan; the Southern Maine Snow Challenge is on Sunday, Jan. 28 in North Windham. Prizes, based on the amount of money raised, are awarded and there is no registration fee.

Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system which strikes young adults between the ages of 20 and 50. Unfortunately, Maine has one of the highest prevalence rates of MS in the nation, with more than 1,200 reported cases.

To register for the MS Snow Challenge, or for more information, please call the Maine Chapter at 761-5815 or 1-800-322-5815.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club met for the regular club meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 2. Visiting Rotarians and guests included Dave Low and Larry Kitter from the Oxford Hills Club, Brendon Bass and Dick Fain from Bethel.

Winner of the 50/50 raffle was Dave Preble.

The program for the morning was John Head's financial report on the club's ac-plunged 40 feet to Wild River. The home of John Swan and family, of South Bethel, was burned. Roscoe Swan and Orrie Bachelor suffered severe head and hand burns and all clothing and furnishings were lost. Ten loaded coal cars left the track at Gilead, but traffic was maintained on the passing side.

Deaths: Pressey Gerry, Albert Silver, Marsella Swan, Stanley Heikkinen.

activities for the first half of the fiscal year. These included a very successful Rotary auction, barbecue at Mollycoddett Day and pancake breakfast. Also the citrus sale, the doll house raffle and the Christmas tree sale which are dedicated to the Spanish-American Youth Exchange Program. The Senior Citizens dinner, the Christmas for children and the Christmas food baskets were successful community activities.

Special thanks goes to committee chair people, and Ann Friedlander from the Unicorn Flower Shop (for donating space to sell the Christmas trees) and David Hanscom for donating the doll house for the raffle.

Guess our January thaw has come early this year. The last day of December was a mixed bag of weather and understand the road crews in different towns worked very hard to keep the roads in half-way good condition for the New Year's Eve party-goers. Our son, Wilfred, was flying up from Florida but was over 12 hours late as they had to stay in the airplane overnight because of fog. It has seemed so good to have it warmer for all week. Haven't done much this week as phlebitis of the leg has made me uncomfortable.

The 30th of December George drove Frankie and Theresa to Lewiston to see "Francis." The 31st Kristin brought James William over to see me and on the 31st Mary Smith came in for a short visit. The Don Bean family went to N. Conway, N.H. the 31st and came back New Years.

James and Jo Monahan went to supper at Welch's in Gorham, N.H. the 24th and shopping. Paddy Monahan Newcomb of Reno, Nev. called her parents Christmas Day. George and Betty Gilbert had their two sons Ronnie and Randy and families for Christmas.

New Year's Eve Jack and Pat Greig went to the Legion Hall for a couple of hours.

Don and Darla Fudge, former headmaster of Gould Academy who were visiting with friends in Bethel spent one afternoon with the Shaws.

Christmas Day Bob and Ginny Keniston had Glenn, Martha, Deanne, Glenn M. and Jonathan Bangs of Dresden; Dr. Lennie, Becky, Jon and Jen Shaw of our road, David, Jody, Heath and Heather of Norway, Peter Stacey and Elise of Turner and Ginny's mother Elsie Davis.

The 29th the Shaw family went to Paul H. and Lucy Rogers for the Jewish holiday observance. A pedicab supper was served. Each family brought their menorah and lit their candles. Heath and Heather Keniston of Norway spent Christmas vacation with their Aunt Becky and family.

Ernest and Alberta Angevine had their family Christmas tree and dinner first of January. Attending were Dick, Sue, Kristy, Dusty, Sammy Angevine, Sherri and Tana Cardova, Ricky, Craig and Terry; Victor, Judy, Sarah, Jess and Vicky Coolidge and Betty Blake.

Christmas Day Dick and Sue Angevine talked to their son Tim in Quinlan, Texas. Dick and Sue Angevine had for Christmas dinner and tree Ricky, Craig, Terry, Dianna, Sherri, Tana, Kristy, Dusty and Sam.

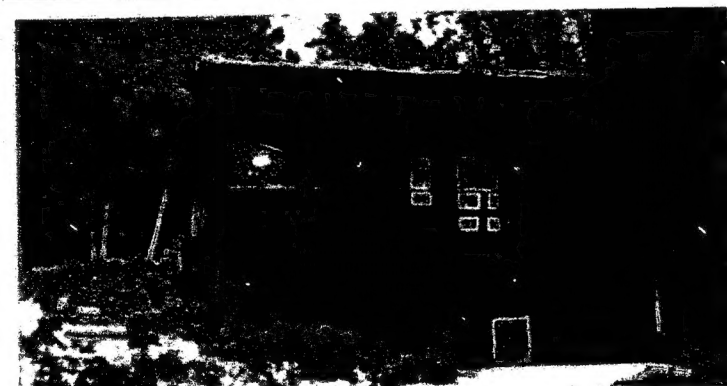

Dusty Angevine is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Angevine for a few days.

Thelma Merrill, at Ledgewick, is recovering from the flu.

Three girls from Millinocket, Dora Doris and Evelyn stayed with Joe and Gerry Shimamura New Year's weekend. Justin Shimamura spent Christmas vacation with Gram and Gramp (Joe and Gerry) Shimamura and Butch and Mabel

Mahoosuc Arts Council notes accomplishments

The Mahoosuc Arts Council is beginning the 1990s with several exciting changes.
The Council is no longer operated out of volunteer closets and kitchens. Gould Academy has provided office space for Mahoosuc Arts in exchange for which the Arts Council will plan and organize the Academy's Performing Arts Series. Since office space is under construction at this time, the Arts Council is operating out of a temporary office in the basement of the Bingham Auditorium. The phone (824-3575) is connected to an answering machine until the office construction is completed.

By helping to plan Gould's Thursday evening programs, the Council has been able to help coordinate programming between Gould, the SAD #44 schools and the Bethel community. The Laurentian String Quartet is an example of this. During their stay in the community in October, the members of this string quartet performed for the district's K-3rd grades, the Middle School students, and they gave a performance for the Gould students as part of the Performing Arts Series. This last performance was open to the general public.

In December, the Arts Council worked in conjunction with Jan Baker of Gould Academy's Owen Art Gallery in order to share Alan Campbell's talent with the Bethel community. Mr. Campbell is an artist who has lived in Antarctica for months at a time, painting colorful scenes of life in the Antarctic. Mrs. Baker contacted the artist and set up a showing of his work at the Owen Gallery, she then worked with the Arts Council to set up programs for the Gould Performing Arts Series and the Bethel elementary school children. This coordinated effort brought the Antarctic to life for many students. Mr. Campbell was so impressed with the Bethel community that he plans to return for a visit with his own elementary age children.

Thanks to a grant from the Betterment Fund, Mahoosuc Arts has been able to expand its operations. Actual grant funding will not be given to the Council until the Internal Revenue Service has processed the Council's non-profit status. In the mean time, thanks to a loan from a generous sponsor, the Council has been

Bob and Linda Howe went to dinner New Year's Eve with Sandra and Barbara MacGreer. They went to Wilfred's in Gorham, N.H. Seth and Jon Howe spent the night with Swan family on Sunday River Road.

PATTEN TO WED BROOKS

Leroy and Ann Patten of Bethel are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter LeeAnn to Mark Andrew Brooks, son of Norton and Mavis Brooks of Hanover.

No date has been set for the wedding. Mark and LeeAnn reside in Hanover with their son Andrew Mark.

able to purchase a computer system which was included in the grant application. The Arts Council's executive directors, Vicki Rackliffe and Marguerite Graham have coordinated a combined computer workshop for representatives from the Adult Education office, the Bethel Area Health Center and the Arts Council to be given by Harper Computers of Portland.

One of the first functions of the new computer system will be to update and file information relating to the generous contributions community members have made to Mahoosuc Arts. The system will also be used for programming and publicizing upcoming events.

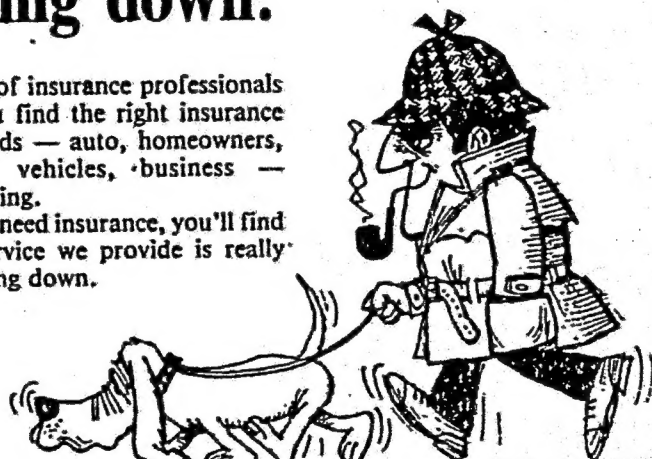

This month the council is sponsoring performances by the dancers Berg, Jones and Sarvis on Jan. 11 in conjunction with the Gould Performing Arts Series and with the support of the Maine Arts Commission. An assembly performance for the Middle School students will include the Bethel fifth grades. Paul Sarvis was in Bethel last October as part of a residency program with the Bethel fifth grade students. The students will now get a chance to see their teacher dance. In the evening, Berg, Jones and Sarvis will perform in the Bingham Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. as part of the Performing Arts Series. This performance is open to the community and tickets will be sold at the door.

On Feb. 1, the Beaming Puppets will give a performance of "The Sorcerer's Circus" for Andover and Woodstock students at the Woodstock School, and they will give an evening performance of "The Firebird" at the Woodstock School. The Mahoosuc Arts Council is currently planning performances for the 1990-91 season, and they welcome suggestions and comments on past and future programs.

Happy New Year to all of you. May the saddest day of your future be no worse than the happiest day of your past.

Have you had any news for a couple of weeks for various reasons. Either no one was home or all they had to report was Christmas shopping I was told. Last weekend Brian was just getting over and I was just coming down with the current misery which is going around.

We had a small get-together here for a lasagna supper and gift swapping on Christmas eve.

One expression that sounds strange to me but seems to be used more now-a-days is "Christmas Eve Day." What's wrong with "the day before Christmas?" It's even gone as far as "the morning of Christmas Eve day" and "the day before Christmas Eve day" which, to me, would be two days before Christmas.

Bob Lowe says he'll believe it when he sees the rain predicted for Sunday which would be what—New Years Eve Day? The temperature at his house this morning was -22°. Mona and Katrina Lowe were in Florida recently and Mona would like to be back there right now.

Katrina was down from North Conway for Christmas with her family. I was pleased that she spoke to me when she was in the store. I hadn't seen her for several years and didn't recognize her.

Muffin (isn't that a great name for an English sheep dog) came down with her. Bob and Mona were in Portland Sunday.

Visitors at Joe and Maribel Gilbert's this week have been: Jean and Al Collet, Sebago; Jim Gilbert and daughter Jennifer, Westbrook; Nancy Tobin and Rhea Gibbs, Massachusetts.

The family was all down to visit Joe Deegan at Ledgeview on Christmas eve. Leah took down some of the traditional Christmas Eve oyster stew.

Joining Ronnie, Sally, Koral and Eben Smith for Christmas night supper were: Grace and Warren Smith, Leekle Mills; Florence Beck; Robert Deegan and Leah Deegan.

Ray, Janice and Patrick Harrington received phone calls from Tom in Germany and Robbie in Georgia over the holiday. On Christmas Eve they joined Cora and Alfred Johnson and Mrs. Morse at Don and Pat Johnson's in Norway. Kevin and Stephanie McGloin, Kara and Kris were with them for Christmas dinner. Ray, Janice and Patrick planned to Land specialists to speak at conference

Two leading authorities on land trusts and conservation easements will speak at a conference in Augusta on Saturday, Jan. 13.

Stephen J. Small, author of "Preserving Family Lands," is an attorney with Powers & Hall Professional Corporation of Boston and was the principal draftsman for the IRS on the regulations concerning deductibility of conservation easements. Robert A. Lemire, author of "Creative Land Development," is a noted land use consultant, a lecturer at Harvard and elsewhere and was chairman of the Lincoln, Mass. Conservation Board for 15 years. He has developed important new strategies on land use and controlling change.

The program, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Central Maine Power headquarters on Edison Drive, is sponsored by the Kennebec Land Trust (P.O. Box 261, Winthrop 04984) and other organizations. Pre-registration is $30 (includes lunch). Call 622-1595. Registration at the door is $37.50.

NOTES FROM Telstar Guidance

Senior Counselor Dan Hart is pleased to announce the following recent post-secondary acceptances for the Class of 1990: Wendy Faulkingham, daughter of Lewis and Betty Faulkingham, Bryant Pond, Bachelor's Degree Accounting, Thomas College, Waterville; Roger Riedel, son of Elizabeth Laudano, East Andover, U.S. Marine Corps, Aircraft Maintenance; Kryston Monk, daughter of Cathy Monk, Bryant Pond, Culinary Arts, New Hampshire Technical College, Berlin; Cathy Cronin, daughter of Joseph and Martha Cronin, Andover, Medical Assistant, New Hampshire Technical College, Manchester; Debbie Barker, daughter of Brad and Judy Barker, Bethel, Psychology, University of Maine at Farmington; Kristen Cushman, daughter of Maynard and Dorothy Cushman, Bryant Pond, Business Administration, University of New England, Biddeford; Teague Berry, son of David Berry, Andover and Pam Berry, Oxford, Power and Engineering Technology, Maine Maritime Academy, Castine.

The Financial Aid Workshop was well attended by parents of juniors and seniors last month. Senior parents who were unable to make that meeting may call for an appointment to receive that information. Please be reminded that seniors who need to apply for financial assistance, are advised to file their F.A.F. with Princeton by Feb. 16.

Telstar Counselors Dan Hart and Beth LaVallee are currently working with six other counselors from northern Oxford County preparing a college fair for juniors. Tentative plans are to have the fair at Mt. Valley High School on Wednesday, Feb. 7. In addition to this, counselors are also working with the Bethel Rotary Vocational Service Committee planning a career fair for area high school freshmen on Wednesday, March 14. Watch for future details.

Sophomores and juniors recently received an interpretation on their College Board PSAT scores. Telstar students fared well. The 21 juniors who took the test earned a mean verbal of 40.9 and mean math of 41.1. Nationally, collebrate New Years Eve with supper at Gold Street.

Chadbourne's crew took a few loads of chips off the Tom Kennard place this week, which was good timing because there was no school bus to meet on the hill.

I'm going to miss my neighbors who moved to Vermont this week. They are the type of people who fit in and feel as if they had always been part of the community. Best wishes for a healthy, happy and prosperous life to all of them.

CPS Discoveries

By TAMMY MILLS

The fourth grades have been very busy the past few weeks trying to combine Christmas and subjects. We all had a wonderful vacation, and are glad to be back!

Unfortunately, Mrs. Gilbert has been out sick all week. Her students miss her very much. They have had a great time getting back into the swing of things with the substitute, Miss Roy. They will also miss Miss Roy when she leaves!

Mr. Hay and Mrs. Mills classes have been studying magnetism and electricity. The students spent several days experimenting with magnets of all shapes, sizes and strengths. They would make a hypothesis, and then perform experiments to either prove or disprove their theory. Using this method, they have discovered that different size and shape magnets have different strengths, that magnets have two directions of attraction, a north and south pole, and that only certain metals are attracted by magnets. After more discoveries are made about magnetism, we will build electromagnets and move on to electricity.

Within this unit, the students are learning to write theories, and to write our experiments. They are also diagramming and labeling parts of their experiments, and learning how to readjust variables in order to improve the validity of their experiments.

Students are busy with multiplication processes and the memorization of facts. In Mrs. Mill's class, they created a holiday feast for their families from grocery store flyers. They had to decide on foods from each food group, how much food they would need to feed their family, and if their total remained within their $250 budget. After they planned their menu, they needed to find the total amount by multiplying the amount by the price, and then adding everything together! They now realize the importance of addition, multiplication, estimation and measurement in the real world! Their next project will deal with taking surveys, and graphing the results using many different graphs, and figuring out percentages using division.

Congratulations to Mr. Hoy's class who enjoyed an ice cream party this afternoon. Each child completed a chapter book, and filled out a construction paper star that gave information about the book! Motivating children to read should always be an integral part to any reading program. Once kids are hooked on books, they never let go!

My Side of the Mountain by Jean George was introduced to Mrs. Mill's class this morning, and her five copies have already disappeared from the classroom library! A group of students have gotten together to "share-read" them during our silent reading time. Silent reading time is a much-enjoyed, essential element of everyone's reading program. It provides the children a chance to experiment with books, share books, and develop fluency as a silent reader.

We miss you Mrs. Gilbert, and hope you are up and about very soon! Stay tuned for news from fifth grade next week!

TALLY-HO CLUB NOTES

In December, the Tally-Ho 4-H Horse Club pulled together a holiday food basket to donate to a needy family in West Paris. There are 17 members enrolled in Tally-Ho and everyone contributed to the community project.

Every year, 4-H clubs select community leadership and service projects for their county. 4-H members have completed many citizenship projects such as helping those confined to their homes, recognizing senior citizens and visiting hospital patients.

Mark Twain once wrote, "I reverently believe that the Maker who made us all makes everything in New England but the weather."

There is such a variety about the New England weather that compels admiration or regret. It is always doing something; getting up new designs and then trying them on people just to see how it works. One thing that can be counted on is: there will be plenty of it, but you never know when or how the procession will move.

There is one thing New Englanders always remember—an ice storm like the one brought to us on New Years Eve and on through the night, so that by morning boughs and twigs were strung with ice-beds.

I turned my lights on outside, at midnight and how the wires sparkled! Where the lights played directly upon them those myriads of beads and drops glowed, and burned and flashed with all manner of colored fires.

When morning arrived there was a jungle of incomparable beauty. Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but no jewelry can match that strung on every twig during the first hours of the ice storm. You must go out early to appreciate the countryside imprisoned and fixed at that moment. It is truly magnificent. As usual it started with a misty rain, which coincided with dropping temperatures.

In the woods a little later in the morning the ice clattered as it fell. I saw no birds, no bouncing squirrels, and no sign of other life. But they were there of course—everything from the chickadee roosting in the conifers to the deer bedding in a thicket. Wild creatures are programmed to such happenings. They wait. Only mankind frets.

I'm glad I didn't miss that or some of the exploding lights in the sky earlier. All of it was intoxicating, so magnificent that I can not make the words too strong to write it all.

The City was quiet over New Years Eve.

The snowmobilers are now having fun riding the pond.

When I was walking on Thursday, an airplane flew down above the pond. It

Oxford County Head Start earns special recognition

The Department of Human Services recently singled out for recognition the Oxford County Head Start program headed by Deborah Damon of Community Concepts, Inc.

The announcement was made at the New England Head Start Directors and Parents Association meeting in Framingham, Mass.

"Your program," said the Regional Program Director, Administration for Children, Youth and Families Richard A. Stirling, "is one of only eight programs in the region which for the past four years has met or exceeded our program compliance indicators."

Program Performance Standards are established as a basis for evaluating Head Start programs nationwide, to call attention to program operations which are out-of-compliance, in order to bring those programs up to standard. In this instance, said Stirling, we want to recognize those programs which "do a consistently fine job."

The Head Start Program in Oxford County was the first established in Maine just 25 years ago in 1965. Community Concepts operates four Head Start centers for pre-schoolers: in Norway, West Bethel, Oxford and at the Chisholm Center in Rumford.

There are 13 Head Start programs in Maine and over 1,000 across the nation. Although the program provides quality education for 110 children in Oxford County, only 25 percent of Maine children who are eligible for Head Start are enrolled in Head Start programs.

"Special commendation must go to our 20 Head Start and Day Care teachers as well as to parents and staff who contribute their time to the Head Start Policy Council," said Ms. Damon. The recognition was especially welcomed by Community Concepts staff, which on a daily basis plan and carry out the program as they work with children, parents and community to insure the very best beginning for each new generation of young students.

Four Medicines for Peptic Ulcers

An ulcer is an open sore or eroded area on the surface of any organ or tissue. Ulcers that form on the walls of the digestive tract (esophagus, stomach, or small intestine) are commonly referred to as "peptic ulcers." Peptic ulcers are thought to occur as a result of the secretion of excessive amounts of digestive juices such as hydrochloric acid and pepsinogen.

Antacids are the most commonly used medicines for peptic ulcer relief. Because of the possibility of interactions with other medicines, antacids should be taken two to three hours after taking certain medicines such as tetracycline, theophylline, digoxin, and cimetidine.

Special antihistamines which are referred to as H2 antagonists reduce the amount of digestive juice secreted into the gastrointestinal tract. The H2 antagonists include cimetidine and ranitidine.

Coating agents such as sucralfate bind tissue in the gastrointestinal tract, insulating ulcers from the corrosive action of acid.

Anticholinergic agents such as propantheline block the action of acetylcholine, thereby decreasing hydrochloric acid production.

The Extension Line...

U. Maine Cooperative Extension Service

Self-praise is at the center of a positive self-concept. Self-praise supports the idea that it is all right for a person to feel good about him/herself and frees them from being dependent on compliments from others. Helping children to praise themselves is a delicate art, but it is a skill worth learning as it involves helping them to evaluate realistically, gain independence, and make their own judgments.

When children accomplish a task, encourage self-praise. You might say, "I bet you feel good about what you have accomplished," or "How do you feel about what you did?" Be sure that children are able to point out specific positive points about their experience or accomplishment. Also encourage children to give themselves a verbal or actual "pat on the back" by speaking self-praise out loud, even when no one is around. Children and adults often feel self-conscious about self-praise, or they may be afraid others will think they are bragging, but self-praise is not the same as bragging. Bragging usually involves comparisons and trying to "prove something" to someone else, while self-praise does not involve others. Bragging: Compares behavior to others; uses superlatives (like best, fastest) in comparison to others; tends to belittle others, or bestow praise on oneself at the expense of others; sounds improbable, easy to argue with; causes listener to not take statements seriously; makes it easy to be phony. Examples: "I am the fastest runner in my class!" "I make a better chocolate cake than anyone I know."

Self-Praise: Compares behavior only to one's past performance; tends to enhance others or be mutually supportive; sounds believably stresses speaker's feelings so it's difficult to argue with; requires self-disclosure; listener often, in turn, shares feelings with speaker. Examples: "I can run a mile a minute faster than I could last year." "My chocolate cake usually turns out moist and light—just the way I like it."

Since children learn by imitating adults, it's important for adults to praise themselves. By praising yourself, you are showing children how to feel good about themselves and that it is all right to self-praise. However, it is not easy for adults to learn to praise themselves either. You may silently say something nice about yourself, but it is important to learn to say these positive things out loud. This not only helps adults improve their self-esteem, but it also provides a positive model for children. If self-praise is a new experience, start with something simple like a specific behavior or accomplishment, and then move on to personal qualities when self-praise becomes more natural.

Teach children to praise others. Praise multiplies—praising others often brings praise in return. By learning to praise others, children will become even better at looking for good things in themselves and in others instead of concentrating on the bad or weak things.

EFFECTIVE PARENTING

One of the nation's most popular parent education programs is now available in a new format especially for parents of young children.

Early Childhood STEP—Systematic Training for Effective Parenting of Children Under Six—is now being offered beginning Jan. 16, 7-9 p.m. at Telstar High School.

The program is being sponsored by SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, and Larrie Hosh, who will lead the class. Early Childhood STEP is designed especially for parents whose children are newborn through age five. According to the program's authors, its objective is to help parents gain parenting skills, understand children's behavior, and build self-esteem, communication, and healthy family relationships.

Early Childhood STEP is based on the popular parenting program STEP Systematic Training for Effective Parenting, which American Guidance Service (AGS) of Circle Pines, Minn. first introduced in 1976.

For more information on Early Childhood STEP groups in SAD #44, contact SAD #44 Adult Education, 824-2780.

By MARTA CLEMENTS

The new year is off to a great start and school life is back to normal. The kindergarten classes are learning about the four food groups. They are discussing the meaning and value of a balanced diet. As always they are emphasizing the importance of a good breakfast. For activities the classes will be making vegetable people and will be creating plates made up of well balanced selections for the food groups. In reading they are learning all about the letter L and will be enjoying their pretzel letter.

The 1st-graders are reading all about Curious George, as H.A. Rey is their author of the month. They have begun another big book. This one is all about the happening of winter. Each student will illustrate one page, dictate a story to Mrs. Loper which she will incorporate into the book and the book will be illustrated and become part of their library.

The 2nd-graders are beginning their CAP, Children Are People, program. This month's mascots are the little brother and little sister bears, characters from the Berenstain Bears books. Both books and bears go home to visit and be shared with parents. David Hemphill is the special student of the week—a great way to start the new year!

Mr. Burke reports that the 3rd-graders are beginning 1990 with the spirit of renewal. They will be doing a bit of review to renew and upgrade skills already taught. They are working on the "short e" sound, continuing with mapping skills and learning more about interrelationships in science.

Mr. Latta's 4th-graders are enjoying having their own computer. One of our new computers has been set up in their room and enthusiasm is high. They are also caught up in a new story, The Bridge To Terabithia.

My 4th-graders were delighted to receive a reply from Patricia MacLachlan, the author of Sarah Plain and Tall. We wrote to her last fall to tell her how much we enjoyed her book. Now we are really looking forward to reading more of her books. We are also zeeing in on our CAP lessons and doing lots of writing.

Mr. Koch's 6th-graders are writing and concentrating on forming good paragraphs. They have finished up their study of Mexico and are now learning about our neighbor to the north, Canada. In reading they have been learning about inventors and inventions. Thomas Edison is one well known inventor read about, but Margaret Knight from York, Maine also invented something really handy. What do you think it is? Tune in next week for the answer. Sixth-graders are now creating some wild and wacky inventions. In my last column the 6th grade science question was, "In what sky do you find Orion and the Seven Sisters?" The answer is in the winter, the southern sky.

Mr. Grigsby, our home school counselor, reports that he is enjoying working with the 1st-graders with a pro-

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Among the latest contributors to the 1989 Bethel Historical Society Endowment Campaign are John and Mary Beth Bayerlein, Bethel and Dr. Donald M. Christie, Jr., Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Much appreciation is extended to these donors for their generous support.

Newest members of the Bethel Historical Society include Martha M. Farrington, Bryant Pond, Dr. William H. Wanger, Rumford, and Jessica, Sarah and Victoria Coolidge, Bethel.

Charles Errol Heywood's 1973 "History of Upton" is available again to anyone interested. This time the book is in paperback form, but does include all the pages of the original edition. Well-illustrated with both maps and contemporary photographs, the book contains a wealth of genealogical information as well as some historical highlights of this small but important Oxford County town. Mr. Heywood possessed lifelong ties to the area and his family continues that tradition to this day. He was also the first president of the Bethel Historical Society. The history is available for purchase at the Dr. Moses Mason House during regular business hours (8 a.m. to 4 p.m. M-F) and by appointment (824-2908). The cost is $10 plus tax. Anyone interested in acquiring one should call the Society or stop by the gift shop. It can also be shipped by mail for a $1 fee in addition to its selling price and tax.

Looking Back
Ten Years Ago: Total membership for the Bethel Historical Society was 331. Skiers at the Sunday River Ski Touring Center were skiing in Grafton Notch State Park due to the absence of snow in Millard. Information letters were mailed to all graduates of Telstar Regional High School regarding the formation of an alumni association. Deaths: Mabel V. Storr, Morris S. Vail, Eva L. Cheney.

Twenty Years Ago: Fire destroyed one of the older homes in Gilead as flames swept through the Chapman Homestead. 24 hours of rain following 15 inch snowfall caused hazardous traveling conditions, leaking roofs, wet cellars and flooded lowlands. Births: Deanne Marie Bangs. Marriages: Vivian Arlene Brown and Peter James Howard; Elizabeth Olson and Thomas A. Davis.

gram called Kiddie Q.R. (quieting response). This is a stress management technique aimed at their level, where they learn to relax themselves by focusing in on their "body friends," different parts of their own bodies.

Mrs. Verkuille who teaches in our resource room reports that they are having fun with calculators, using them to reinforce the concept that multiplication is repeated addition. She has also come up with a way to make herself schedule in time for reading games. She has established a point system whereby her students earn points and if the required number is met, Friday will be game day. Sounds like fun!

Happy New Year from all of us to all of you.

Deaths: Isabelle D. Brooks, Margaret A. Hall, Joseph I. Spofford, Alvar Jervanpaa, Wade L. Robertson, Jennie L. Judkins.

Thirty Years Ago: Mr. and Mrs. Millard Clough celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on New Year's Day. The 1957 Pontiac sedan belonging to Larry Davis, A & P Store manager, was stolen from its parking place behind the store. Samuel L. Smith was seriously injured in an automobile accident in South Woodstock when his car left the road and struck a tree. Alder River Grange held its first meeting of 1990 with 19 present. Deaths: Clarence E. Cole, Lewis V. Merrill.

Forty Years Ago: Fritz Tyler of Bethel was spending winters in Florida, building houses. Birth: William Ernest Eames. Marriage: Rodney E. Jordan and Carol M. Swan.

Fifty Years Ago: Governor Lewis Barrows and Congressman Ralph O. Brewster announced their candidacies for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Frederick Hale. The Aeronca plane belonging to Edwin Brown was damaged in a landing at West Bethel field when a wheel hit a timber and turned the plane through a fence. Robert Billings of East Bethel and George Stearns of Hanover were among the group of leaders and champions attending the state 4-H contest at the University of Maine in Orono. Deaths: Wealthy Ames, Walter Rowe, Charles T. Powers, Celia Wright, Thomas W. Vashaw, Harriet Aldrich, Lou Faulkner Perry.

Price support payments available to wool farmers

"Farmers who have sold or plan to sell any unshorn lambs or mohair this year should turn in their sales receipts to be eligible for price support payments under the National Wool Act," Beverly Stevens, county executive director of the Oxford County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said.

Farmers who have a record of their wool and mohair sales are eligible for payments only if the sales are reported to the ASCS Office.

Mrs. Stevens said the quantity does not affect the eligibility. However, sales slips should contain the date of shearing (if possible), the month and date of sales, number of head shorn, pounds of wool (grease basis) or mohair sold, and net proceeds. Sales slips for lambs also must show the live weight and state that the lambs were unshorn.

She also reminds wool producers that marketing charges must be itemized on the sales documents, other than for sales at a farm, ranch, or local shipping point.

For more information contact the Oxford County ASCS office, 1 Main St., South Paris, 04281, or call 743-7010.

Shorn wool and mohair payments are based on percentage of each producer's returns from sales.
